Ofgem is now restructuring to meet its duties and obligations for both today's and also tomorrow's consumer. E-Serve, a newly created Ofgem business, will be responsible for Ofgem's delivery functions while Ofgem maintains its regulatory and policy roles.

We're looking for an exceptional Project/Programme Director to lead on design and delivery of some big energy projects, 'champion' project management disciplines across Ofgem and mentor and develop project/programme skills in others. You will be expected to develop a resource management approach and facilitate its application within and across business units, covering project and "business as usual" work.

Qualified to degree level, preferably with a postgraduate qualification, you will have proven expertise in project/programme management and a demonstrable track record of managing and delivering major projects against challenging deadlines to agreed cost and quality requirements. In addition, you will use your excellent communication skills to represent Ofgem and engage with senior stakeholders, both internally and externally.

Whilst we are looking for a top Programme Manager who is a capable all rounder, the elements that will make you stand out are:

Key competencies

- project and programme delivery in a policy environment
- expertise in the energy sector
- internationally recognised qualification with Prince 2 Practitioner and PMP preferred
- experience in a regulatory environment
- ability to lead a centre of excellence not just a project or programme.
